

FLUX

LOCATION:

San Francisco, CA

SIZE:

10-50 Employees

INDUSTRY:

Technology

FOCAL PRODUCTS:

Locus Workstations

FLUX is a venture backed, San Francisco based start-up that is creating software to reimagine sustainable building design. In 2012, Flux founder Nicholas Chim was looking for a workstation that kept him energized and on task. Fortunately, he found Focal Upright and became one of our earliest adopters. Chim's Locus Workstation attracted some serious attention from his employees - so much attention that, after coming back to the office after a business trip, Chim found that one of his employees had claimed the workstation for his own. Understanding the importance of keeping his employees healthy and happy, Chim has since outfitted his new office with Focal products and offers a Locus Workstation to any employee who would like one. Flux's culture emphasizes energy, creativity, and collaboration and Focal Upright's Locus Workstation inspires just that.

"Focal has been a great addition to our office space, as it provides a functional balance between sitting and standing. It has raised our awareness of ergonomics and encourages us to shift postures throughout the day. We hope that it is improving the long term health of our team."

- Nicholas Chim, CEO and Founder